o Centre: $1 billion project to create 40,000 jobs

By RAY DAY

ANP Managing Editor

A $1 billion, multi-use development near the Detroit Metropolitan Airport, Romulus, needs only a construction commitment from Michigan Department of Transportation officials before ground can be broken on the plan, which will create 40,000 new jobs and $500 million in new tax base, Romulus city officials said this week.

Revised preliminary plans for the Metro/World Centre were revealed to city and state officials by Florida developer E. Lloyd Ecclestone Jr. during a meeting in Romulus earlier this month, a state official has said. The project, according to preliminary plans, will occupy up to 1,000 acres of land and include 9.2 million square feet of commercial and industrial buildings – including a major hotel-conference center, World

The project will occupy up to 1,000 acres and include 9.2 million square feet of commercial and industrial buildings – a major hotel-conference center, World College, office space for business and research, commercial area and two small lakes.

College, office space for business and research, commercial area and two small lakes.

Describing the project to be the plan that will make Romulus an internationally known word, Romulus Mayor Beverly McAnally said Monday that city officials have been meeting with Ecclestone and his Birmingham-based real estate broker for the project, Don Marentette, since 1984. Along with state lawmakers and city planning consultants McKenna and Associates, city officials have been aggressively promoting the idea of what some are calling the third largest development in terms of land size in the state.

“We started working with them in 1984, when we were holding a series of economic development meetings,” McAnally explained. “We sort of beat the drum about the potential of the city. (Marentette) provements needed before the developer will commit to building the center have caused a few headaches, McAnally said. The headaches are caused mainly by a waiting game being played with state transportation officials, she explained.

Included in the developer's plans, McAnally said, is an interchange off of I-94 at Vining Road and an overpass at the same location. MDOT officials have already committed to building the overpass, but a decision on whether or not the interchange should be constructed will not be made for at least two months.

The two road improvements are critical to the project, the mayor said, in terms of traffic flow and access to the various buildings in the center.

Kosteva – who met Thursday in Lansing with representatives from Johnson Johnson & Roy Inc. (the Ann Arbor-based land use planning firm contracted by Ecclestone), MDOT, the governor's office and state Department of Commerce on behalf of the city – said the two-month wait is needed to complete a land use study.

“The indication was that in two months (state transportation officials) will be able to make their recommendations as to whether that intersection should be built or not,” Kosteva said. “Ultimately, the decision rests with the federal Highway Administration. But it is rare that (federal officials) don't accept the state recommendation.”

The interchange will cost about $9 million to be constructed, McAnally said, and will be funded by state and federal monies. Traditionally, Kosteva said, the federal government

Young at art

Students in the developmental kindergarten classes at Cory Elementary School, Romulus, discovered a few of their artistic abilities last week, as teacher Evelyn Gehm staged the first art day of the year for the youngsters. Students used pieces of styrofoam, foam rubber and nylon to make a wide variety of finished “masterpieces.” For more on the program and art day, see page 3. School millage vote is planned in April

By RAY DAY

ANP Managing Editor

Voters in the Romulus Community School District will be asked to approve a 4.5-mill increase in the general operating tax levy for the schools Tuesday, April 19. But the same voters won't pay any more in tax dollars whether they vote “yes” or “no.”

School board members approved the placement of two proposals on the ballot in April, following a recommendation from the school administration, at their regular board meeting Monday. The issues are divided into Proposal A, a one-year, 4.5-mill increase in the general operating millage, and Proposal B, a three-year, 2-mill increase in the operation millage, beginning in 1989.

Dr. William Bedell, superintendent of schools, said the issues are only technicalities needed to finalize the district money transferring act school officials are trying to perform.

In Proposal A, voters will be asked to approve or reject the one-year, 4.5-mill increase to defray a $1.1 million budget deficit the district has accumulated during the last three years. However, at the same time, Bedell said, school officials will approve a resolution calling for a one-year, 4.5-mill reduction in the debt retirement millage if Proposal A is approved by voters.

Two millage rates are levied for taxpayers in the school district. The general operation

‘The balancing act’

Taxpayers will actually pay no more and no less whether they vote “yes” or “no” on the two ballot proposals. However, school officials say, a “yes” vote is needed to defray a $1.1 million deficit.

millage – currently set at 43.65 mills – is used to fund the day-to-day operations of the system. The debt retirement millage – currently set at 5.50 mills – is used to repay the borrowed monies needed to build new schools and fund other capital improvements.

In addition to the millage levy on all taxpayers in the district, Romulus schools receive funding from the state in the form of state aid. From millage tax collections, Bedell said, the district generates about 14.8 million for general operations.

Illness won't stop Romulus girl from fulfilling dreams

By THOMAS M. VARCIE

ANP Staff Writer

Dana Wasserman, of Romulus, wants to go to Disney World. She wants to ride in a semi-truck because it “looks neat.” She likes to bowl and play golf.

Unfortunately, 11-year-old Dana has cystic fibrosis, an inherited, incurable and life-threatening disease, and only has a short time to fulfill her lifelong dreams.

Approximately 10 million Americans (1 in 20) are unknowing, symptom-less carriers of cystic fibrosis. With cystic fibrosis, a thick, sticky mucus clogs the lungs and airways, creating breathing difficulties, high susceptibility to infection and lung damage. The mucus may also interfere with digestion, causing malabsorption of food.

Dana's mother, Maureen Wasserman, who lives in Romulus with Dana and her other daughter, Denise, became unemployed late last year, was divorced in November, is living on alimony and child support and, nevertheless, wants to fulfill Dana's dreams.

“Dana was diagnosed as a baby at 8 months old as having CF (cystic fibrosis). As she got older, it has really escalated,” Maureen said. “She isn't able to go to school, and I am unable to go to work because I have to take care of her. But everyone is helping us so much.”

Dana attended school only until the third grade at Merriman Elementary school, Romulus. But the school principal, Dan Murray, said she is very bright and sweet.

“She is one of those children that grab you. She is very, very precious, petite and fragile,” Murray said. “She is a really good kid.”

Dana's former first-grade teacher, Joan Omarzu, said, “She was a very delightful student, and she never expects any special treatment,” Omarzu said. “She is a very mature young lady. The children realize she is ill, and they have a very good attitude about her.”

Even though she is faced with a terminal illness, Dana has overcome her ailment by maintaining a 100 average in bowling, by playing golf and by becoming an amateur artist. She said she would bowl in “Bowl for Breath,” a bowling event for individuals with cystic fibrosis and sponsored by the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation.

“She won prizes every year in the ‘Bowl for Breath.’ That occurred every year. In fact, she was getting pretty darn good there for a while. She was even beating me,” said Dana's mother.

Even with all of the sports Dana participates in, she also finds time to play with her puppy, named Precious, who she said “likes to cuddle” with her.

But, as a result of cystic fibrosis, Wasserman said Dana has been unable to play in sports “for about the last year.” She has mobility via a wheelchair and uses an oxygen-supplying unit for breathing.

“She gets out of breath really quick now. It is really sad to see this happen

State lawmakers help keep state office open

State Rep. James Kosteva (D-Canton Township) and Sen. William Faust (D-Westland) have assisted in the signing of a lease agreement that will keep the Romulus Secretary of State branch office open until Sept. 30, the two lawmakers said last week.

In November, Romulus Mayor Beverly McAnally was notified by the state that the Goddard Road office would be closed Feb. 29. Cost-savings and fewer transactions than the Belleville branch were cited as reasons. Figures provided by the Secretary of State indicate that it costs $85,775 to operate the Romulus branch annually.

In addition to legislative efforts, more than 1,100 Romulus citizens voiced their opposition to the closing by signing petitions and sending postcards to the two lawmakers. Kosteva and Faust said the next step will be to monitor the Secretary of State budget as it goes through the appropriations process this spring.

Huron supervisor dies of illness

Ralph V. Dugan, 65, supervisor of Huron Township, died Sunday after a long illness.

The viewing was Tuesday at Bobcean Funeral Home in Flat Rock. Funeral services are at 9 a.m. today at Bobcean and at 10 a.m. at St. Stephen's Church, New Boston.

Born Dec. 11, 1922, Dugan was a long-time resident of Huron Township. He had served in the late 1940s as supervisor of the township, but later went to work in the family lumber business, Dugan and Sons.

He ran the business until it was sold 15 years ago.

In 1984, he won the election to again become township supervisor.

He is survived by his wife Pauline; two daughters, Mary Saxon, of Kansas City, and Ann Dugan, of Huron Township; and two grandchildren.

Festival group nets state award

The Romulus Festival Committee recently won a community service award from the Michigan Parks and Recreation Department for a festival that occurred last May.

Dennis Davidson, festival committee chairman for 1988, said the award was won for the Romulus Sixth annual Festival, which was staged the third week of May 1987 and generated money as a community project.

Some of the money invested provided stocking stuffers for children at Christmas, a Christmas tree lighting ceremony and the establishment of a senior citizens' park.

Debbie Dick, Recreation Department director for Romulus, said Romulus was one of "17 or 18" communities receiving the award this year.

The Romulus Downtown Business District Association, according to Dick, won the same award three years ago for their community involvement.

Hearing planned on auto repair bill

A public hearing for two bills that would require automobile dealers to tell prospective buyers about significant repairs made to new or demonstrator vehicles has been set for 7 p.m. Thursday, March 3 in the Henry Ford Centennial Library, located on Michigan Avenue, between Southfield and Greenfield roads. An additional hearing is planned in Flint on March 10.

The bills, as introduced by state Rep. Nick Ciaramitaro (D-Roseville) would require a dealer to tell a customer about any repairs that totalled more than $250. A buyer who isn't told about the repairs could nullify the sales contract and sue the dealer for damages. The bills would also allow for state licensing against the dealer.

What is a VITREOUS DETACHMENT?

The vitreous is a clear gel that fills the inside of the eye behind the lens and in front of the retina. Its purpose is to maintain the eye's shape and pressure. As we grow older, the vitreous tends to change from a gel to a fluid, allowing dot or thread-like protein particles in the vitreous to move about freely. These particles are called floaters. This liquefaction process may be accelerated in highly near-sighted people, and may occur as early as the late 20's or 30's.

As the vitreous liquefies, it shrinks away from the retina (vitreous detachment), usually without symptoms, and the process goes unnoticed. In some cases, however, the vitreous may pull on portions of the retina to which it remains temporarily attached, causing a sensation of intermittent light flashes which are most noticeable in the dark.

In most cases, complete separation of the vitreous from the retina takes place without serious consequence. However, in the course of separation, the vitreous may cause a tear, or hole to develop in the retina, which can lead to retina detachment. If the symptoms of floaters and flashes are noticed, you should "take it easy" at home. If those symptoms persist, see your ophthalmologist to make sure that the retina is not damaged during the vitreo-retinal separation process which may take several weeks to several months.

ROMULUS DIGEST

Police seek armed robber

Romulus police are looking for the suspect who held up a clerk in the lobby of the Roadway Inn, on Merriman Road, shortly after 1 p.m. Friday and escaped on foot with an undisclosed amount of cash.

Reports indicate that a black male - 5-foot, 8-inches to 5-foot-10-inches, in his 20s to 30s, weighing from 160 to 175 pounds and wearing a blue jacket and blue jeans - entered the lobby of the motel, walked up to a vending machine and, finally, approached the counter, where a female motel clerk was stationed.

He reportedly said he had a .38-caliber gun in his pocket and demanded cash. He escaped on foot, heading toward Merriman Road, according to police.

Anyone with information should call the Romulus Police Department at 941-8400.

Recreation input sought

Romulus Mayor Beverly McAnally said Monday she would help any citizen organize a petition drive to have a millage vote to fund the proposed city recreation complex placed on the ballot this year.

The mayor said she left a meeting two weeks ago between city and Romulus Community Schools officials with the feeling that the recreation center should not be a part of the school system. Preliminary cost studies show that about $5 million would be needed to construct the center, which McAnally has suggested could be built in the city Civic Center, on Wayne Road.

The mayor would also like to see an addition made to the city hall, a new police station and new fire station built in connection with the building improvements.

3 citizens appointed

Three Romulus residents were appointed Monday night to seats on three city commissions.

Council members, at their regular council meeting Monday night, approved the appointment of Madora Bryant to the Romulus Fire & Safety Commission, Tom Williams to the Romulus Recreation Commission and Hyle Carmichael to the Romulus Board of Review.

Carmichael's appointment was approved in a 4-2 vote by the council members, with Councilmen Randolph Gear and Ellis Pennington dissenting. Councilman Alan Lambert was absent from the meeting.

The other two appointments were approved unanimously.

New traffic signs OK'd

Three new traffic control devices were approved by members of the Romulus City Council at their meeting Monday night.

A yield sign will now be in place for eastbound traffic entering Flynn Drive from Merriman, a stop sign will be put in place for eastbound traffic on Flynn Drive at Hudson, and a stop sign will be placed for all westbound traffic on Flynn Drive at Merriman Road.

Black history program set

The Romulus Community Organization Team will sponsor a black history program from 2 to 4 p.m. Sunday, Feb. 28 at the Lorean G. Burton Building (Beverly School), 35408 Beverly Road. The program is dedicated to the memory of Justice Hazel L. Harrison.

Exhibitors will be on hand to display literature on various topics, such as health, the judicial system, drug awareness and prevention. A short program with outstanding local guest speakers will provide information on the judicial system.

Following the program refreshments will be served.

Young at art | Cory students test their artistic skills

By RAY DAY
ANP Managing Editor

It was their first experience at art class. But, to these youngsters, all of the works produced were masterpieces.

The students were those from Evelyn Gehm's developmental kindergarten class at Cory Elementary School, Romulus. Gehm teaches two developmental kindergarten classes at Cory, and each has 20 students.

And lots of artistic talent.

"The children had gone to art for the first time. It allowed them to explore the materials and put them together in any fashion they felt comfortable with," Gehm said.

A trip to the Ann Arbor-based Scrap Box provided Gehm with bags of styrofoam "s" shapes, foam rubber pieces, wires and pieces of parachutes. The art materials were of all textures, hardnesses and styles - the perfect materials to teach beginning students the basics of sensory skills (touching and feeling).

The developmental kindergarten program was organized at Cory by Gehm three years ago. A kindergarten teacher for 15 years, she said the program provides youngsters who are able to learn academically with an extra year of social skills, which might help prevent them being labeled as a failure in the traditional kindergarten setting.

"It is a unique program in that it gives the young child an additional year of growth - the child who is still very capable of learning but the social and environmental factors are impeding his ability to learn," Gehm said. "It gives him time to feel comfortable with rules and procedures so he is ready for them when he enters academics."

Gehm said there are four stages of child development, including social, emotional, physical and cognitive. Through a pre-kindergarten (roundup) screening test, the various developmental levels of children are discovered by school officials. If, in the initial test, children are found to show signs of needing extra development skills, a more formal test is administered, and school officials make a recommendation as to whether or not the child should participate in the developmental program, Gehm said.

However, the final decision remains with the parents.

"I see a lot of growth where the children are in an environment where they have successes. They're not learning with paper and pencil in this program. They're learning with hands-on activities," Gehm said.

And how about their works of art?

"They were thrilled. It was a very good experience," the teacher continued. "With art, there is no right way or wrong way. It is one of the successful experiences we are trying to produce for the students

Jogging track to be constructed behind Beacon School

By RAY DAY
ANP Managing Editor

Joggers, walkers and those whose pace is somewhere in between will have a new trail to perform those exercises, following approval by school board members Monday for the city to use land located behind Beacon School for a jogging track.

Romulus Recreation Director Debbie Dick asked Romulus School Board members early this month for the land-use approval. The city plans to construct the track behind the school, located on Bibbins, at Olive Street. The about one-half to three-quarters of a mile jogging trail will be built around the existing senior citizens' park, near the school, and will, in the future, feature nine exercise stations, Dick said.

"What we are trying to do is not only make it a jogging track but also make a fitness course," Dick explained. "We would also like to attract some of the seniors from the (senior hi-rise) across the street."

The Beacon School site was chosen, she said, because of the number of walkers and joggers spotted in the area by city officials and members of the recreation commission, who approved the idea.

The city will spend from $4,000 to $5,000 for initial construction of the track, Dick said. Funding has already been allocated in the Romulus Community Development Block Grant funds. Another CDBG grant funding application will be filed this year, she continued, for the purchase of the exercise stations to go with the track.

Dick estimated the cost of the stations - which include instructions and equipment for sit-ups, a limber station and those to work on the thighs, hips and waist - to be about $4,000.

Currently, Dick is studying similar tracks in other cities to see what is the best type of material for the base of the up-to 4-foot-thick track. Some cities have used cedar chips and ashes, although asphalt has proven to be the most durable and favorable, Dick said.

Once bids are let and a contractor for the project secured, construction of the track should be completed within one week, Dick said. A completion target date has currently been set for the middle to end of May.

Art in workplace

Another student artist's work is being showcased this month, as part of the Romulus Arts Council Art in The Workplace program. An offshoot of the Student Art Exhibit staged during Michigan Week in the spring, the program is the collection of about 15 student artwork which are displayed in various local businesses for about one year. Sharon Cook, a 1987 graduate of Romulus High School, is the creator of this work, now being displayed in the office of Romulus Mayor Beverly McAnally. Schools to settle lawsuit

School board members Monday approved an $80,000 settlement from the Johns-Manville Corp. for roofing materials the company reportedly sold to a contractor performing work on four district buildings more than 10 years ago.

Dr. William Bedell, superintendent of schools, said the schools filed suit against six entities involved in the roofing repair problems about 10 years ago. Five claims were settled. However, because of bankruptcy proceedings, the Johns-Manville case was still pending

Property assessment board schedules review hearings

Property values increased an average of 5.31 percent last year, which means more money must be paid out in taxes by most homeowners, according to Matthew Raftary, director of the Romulus Department of Assessment.

The Wayne County Assessment and Equalization Division in studies of assessment ratios for Wayne County communities notified Romulus officials of an assessment ratio for residential property of 47.35 percent. The state constitutional limit and statutory requirement is 50 percent, Raftary said.

What this means is that residential property values have increased by 5.31 percent and that Romulus officials must adjust residential property values so that they reflect 50 percent of the value - as required by law.

However, the city assessor said, there will not be an across-the-board 5.31-percent increase. Adjustments will vary between 1 and 9.14 percent, depending on individual locations in the city.

Notices of assessment changes will be mailed to each property owner within the week.

Those who think their property has been assessed incorrectly may take their case to the Romulus Board of Review.

There will not be an across-the board 5.31 percent increase. Adjustments will vary between 1 and 9.14 percent, depending on individual locations in the city.

- Matthew Raftary
City Assessor

If a property owner has purchased property for less than the value placed on it, if comparable homes in the area have been sold for less or if the property has been appraised for less, the board of review members might give a reduction in the assessment.

Those unsatisfied with the local decision may take their case to the Michigan Tax Tribunal.

Staff members in the city assessor's office will be scheduling appointments for property owners to meet with the board of review beginning March 1. Petitions and appointments are available in the assessor's office, 11111 Wayne Road, Romulus. Call 942-7520 between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m.

Appointments for the review board will be scheduled between March 14 and 25 only.

Justice: High school students learn legal system

By THOMAS M. VARCIE
ANP Staff Writer

A Supreme Court trial was staged at Romulus High School in January, involving several Romulus High government students.

Dr. Harry Willnus, American Government teacher at the high school, said each of his five American Government classes participated in the Supreme Court mock trial Jan. 13, with each class having a hypothetical court case to solve.

In each of the classes, students performed as lawyers, judges and an audience. Each individual class had four lawyers, nine judges, an audience and, for the first time in four years Willnus has been having the Supreme Court cases, two senior citizens, who were asked to participate.

In each hypothetical case, introduced by Willnus, the state of Nebraska had a serious outbreak of Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome. As a result, the state government required each AIDS carrier to wear a black arm band indicating they were infected by the virus.

Willnus said, in the case, three teenagers who contracted the virus did not want to wear the special bands, so they brought a lawsuit to the court.

"In each class, two student lawyers defended Nebraska, saying the law was constitutional. Two other student lawyers defended the AIDS carriers, saying the law was unconstitutional," Willnus said.

Surprisingly, Willnus said, each of the classes voted against Nebraska and supported the AIDS patients. Willnus said the decisions for each individual class were 5-4, 6-3, 7-2, 7-2 and 9-0.

"I think it was a very positive experience for the students. They have a better understanding of how the courts work and how the courts are," Willnus said. "Sometimes, the students tended to go with their hearts and not their heads."

Organization of the cases took several weeks, Willnus mentioned. He said the study-and take the paper home to determine how they would decide the case.

"If the kids can act it (the case) out, then it will benefit them more. It's much more meaningful and better," Willnus said.

The teacher said he plans to do the same exercise in May and wants to continue the exercise in the future.

funds from 70 to 90 percent of the bill.

But for whoever makes the decision, McAnally said she is tired of living "two months at a time. They have been saying that for three years."

Kosteva, however, said after these two months, a final decision is expected.

"I felt very optimistic when I left that meeting that the state would review it favorably, and there is a very good chance that they will make a positive recommendation," Kosteva said.

Once the commitment to build the interchange is secured, McAnally said, ground can be broken on the Metro/World Centre "almost immediately." Ecclestone is also expected to formally submit a site plan for the project shortly after the commitment from state officials.

However, actual construction of the overpass and interchange will not begin until mid-1990, Kosteva said, and construction of the actual Metro/World Centre is estimated to continue for about 10 to 15 years.

In addition to the about $100,000 McAnally said the city has already spent to secure this and other current developments, the city will have to foot the bill for several other infrastructure improvements before the Metro/World Centre plan becomes a reality. Road widening and resurfacing on Wick and Henry Ruff would be needed, as would installation of sewers, storm drains, water lines and street lighting on the 1,000-acre site.

In all, the mayor said $4,000 to $5,000 would be a "beginning of those improvements."

To fund the improvements, city officials are eyeing the Tax Increment Finance Authority already in place in most of the development area. TIFA is a specially designated tax district in the city, in which all additional tax monies generated from development after a set period are frozen and used to repay the cost incurred to secure the development.

McAnally said an agreement could be reached with Ecclestone to "lend" the city the up-front monies needed for the infrastructure improvements. The funds could be repaid using the TIFA monies after the project had been constructed.

Dreams

to such a great and loving person," Wasserman said.

But, Dana has hope. In the form of a wish and support from her friends, Dana may be able to have her dreams fulfilled.

Through the Make A Wish Foundation of Michigan, children with terminal illnesses such as Dana are able to have their biggest wish come true.

Even if Make A Wish had not give enough support, Dana's friends at her former elementary school sure would have.

Merriman Elementary School students, parents and teachers participated in a bake sale for Dana, selling cupcakes for 30 cents each. In all, $423 was collected in the three-day bake sale. The funds were given to the Wassermans.

"I was very impressed from the amount of response from the kids," said Murray. "Most of the kids understood this was just not buying a cupcake. They knew it was for a good cause, and they really showed they care. Even though the cupcakes were only 30 cents, over half of the kids contributed more money for the cupcakes."

"I am so touched by this," said Wasserman. "This is just fantastic to see so many people care. The money from the school will be a contribution to the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation, the Make A Wish Foundation and little extra things that Dana wants to do."

And to make Dana's wish come true, a tentative date of March 14 has been set to visit Disney World, according to Wasserman, compliments of the Make A Wish Foundation and Merriman Elementary School.

Millage

The district budgeted expenditures, however, are $22.9 million.

Thus, the state contributes about $6.2 million to the district budget in state aid to make up the revenue difference.

"Basically, our deficit was created not because our expenses were that far off but because of a shortfall in revenue from the state," Bedell explained.

In the 1987-88 school year, the district received $6.2 million in state funding. In 1986-87, the figure was $6.7 million, and $6.2 million in 1985-86. Next year, school officials are expecting an only 1-percent increase in state aid, despite staff salary increases of at least 3 percent and supply cost increases equal to the inflation rate.

Romulus school officials in September slashed 27 full-time teaching positions from the district budget to help reduce the deficit and save $800,000 per year in salaries. However, Bedell said, that was only a beginning.

"Average teachers' salaries increased last year in the county by 6 percent. Romulus teachers only got 3 percent," Bedell said, of the teachers' tentative contract, which expires in November. "We didn't change programs (during the deficit years). We just tried to meet costs, negotiate contracts, and we ended up with a $1.1 million deficit."

The reduction in the debt retirement millage is possible, because of a $1.4 million surplus in that fund. During the years, the school official explained, the district levied a slightly higher millage levy than was needed to repay borrowed monies. In 1987, the 5.50 millage rate generated slightly more than $1.8 million, and about $1.8 million was spent to repay outstanding bonds.

Thus, from $50,000 to $100,000 remained after the bonds were repaid for the year—a situation that exists annually, creating the debt retirement surplus.

"There is nothing else you can do with that money, except collect interest on it," Bedell said.

If Proposal A were approved, the lower debt retirement millage school board members would approve would deplete the $1.4 million surplus, according to Bedell.

Proposal B goes hand-in-hand with Proposal A, the superintendent said. The second proposal calls for a 2-mill, three-year increase in the general operating millage, beginning in 1989. Since Proposal A is for one year only, the current 43.65 millage rate would be restored after the one-year period. The 5.50-mill debt retirement levy would also be restored.

Proposal B asks that the general operating rate be increased to 45.65 mills after Proposal A expires (in 1989). Board members also have said they will then reduce the debt retirement millage from 5.50 to 3.5—a 2-mill decrease in debt retirement equal to the 2-mill increase in general operations.

Because the millage votes actually mean no net change in the total school district taxes, Bedell is optimistic that both issues will be approved.

"Our biggest enemy before was apathy," Bedell said.

The millage vote is the first since 1985. Bedell said school officials also will "probably come back later this year and ask for a bond issue." From $5 to $15 million is needed to be borrowed by the school district for new equipment and school renovations, Bedell explained.

Jail plan stalled

Tax hike 'premature' to fund prison

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Currently, Wayne County taxpayers will not have to concern themselves with paying more property taxes to build a new jail.

The Wayne County Commissioners made sure of that last Thursday when they decided to return the "Cushingberry Resolution" back to committee for further study.

The Cushingberry resolution would have placed on the Nov. 3 ballot a proposition asking county taxpayers to approve an additional 2 mills in property taxes for a period of 10 years to be exclusively used for the construction and operation of a jail and juvenile justice facility.

According to county Commissioner Milton Mack (D-Wayne), the resolution was "a bit premature."

"I don't think the case had been proven that there is a need to increase jail capacity through a millage," Mack explained. "That's what I believe the majority of the commissioners decided to return the resolution to committee. It was a bit premature to ask the taxpayers for a tax hike."

"Millage should be used as a last resort," Mack concluded. Mack said he believes the County Executive (Edward McNamara) has other ideas for the financing of increase jail capacity.

"And I believe we should wait until he (McNamara) unveils his plans before we take action."

The county presently operates two jails - the "old county" jail located at 1231 Antoine, which has approximately 700 inmates, and the newer facility, the Andrew C. Baird Detention facility, also located in downtown Detroit, at 570 Clinton. Built in 1984, the new facility can accommodate 576 inmates.

Wayne County Sheriff Robert Ficano has been asking the courts, but has not received approval, to triple bunk inmates because the county has run out of room to house prisoners. Multiple housing of inmates is permitted by Act 251 and 252 of the Public Acts of 1987.

However, when the jail facilities have become overcrowded, the county is ordered by a court decree to release those prisoners whom they deem to be less violent and harmful to society.

None of the county commissioners will disagree that there is a dire need for additional bed space. However, how to obtain and maintain that space is debatable.

A lawsuit filed by jail inmates Michael Harris, James Johnson, Lawrence Plamondon and others urges the court for assistance in securing additional beds. The inmates argue that their civil rights are being violated by the overcrowded jails.

McNamara has informed the inmates that "the county is not running a Howard Johnson's for them." It presently costs the county $80 a day to incarcerate a prisoner - or approximately $23,000 a year.

The illegal drug traffic in Wayne County, specifically the "crack epidemic" in Detroit, has led to numerous arrests and convictions, resulting in the further demand for jail space, county officials point out.

"Although the county has the ability to construct another 420 beds," said Mack, "it doesn't have the money to hire additional staff to operate the facility."

"The problem threatens to drive Wayne County back into insolvency. We are operating under a balanced budget which is as lean as can be and is being jeopardized by the judicial system - something we can't stop. If the court orders us to cease funding non-mandated programs in order to fund the criminal justice programs, then there goes Hines Park and other recreational facilities."

Bill would regulate state truckers

By BARBARA ALBERT
ANP Staff Writer

An increase in truck accidents in Michigan has caused state Sen. William Faust (D-Westland) to introduce legislation designed to improve safety.

"Truck accidents increased 65 percent in Michigan between 1982 and 1985," Faust said.

Faust and Sen. Richard Fessler (R-West Bloomfield) introduced the legislation Feb. 11 in the state Senate. The legislation is now being studied by the State Affairs and Transportation Committee. Faust said there will probably be two public hearings in March, and he hopes to see lawmakers take action by April.

"I have followed the studies by various agencies, and they show that Michigan has a problem in this area," Faust said. "I also drive extensively, and I have seen what I consider many infractions in truck driving habits."

Several different elements are included in the legislation. Faust said, for the most part, the trucking industry, Teams- ters and insurance agencies have responded favorably.

The two most controversial portions of the package, however, are expected to be the requirement of a tachograph and the right-two-lanes rule.

The legislation would require that all trucks be equipped with a tachograph. The devices provide readings of speed, stops, starts and other information. Faust believes the devices would allow the state to have some control over independent truck drivers.

Many truck drivers, however, believe installation of such a device would be an infringement of their personal rights.

The second controversial portion of the legislation requires trucks to remain in the two right lanes of freeways having three or more lanes in each direction. Trucks would be permitted in the left lane only to exit from the left lane or in emergency passing situations.

The legislation also requires that all loose loads be covered. Faust cites studies which list spillage of materials from trucks as the biggest complaint from motorists.

Trucks will be required to have 22-inch bumpers on all trailers and reinforced rear bumpers.

Truckers would be required to have the owner's name and address printed visibly on the rear of the trailer. With this, motorists could identify truckers involved in dangerous situations, Faust said.

Increase fines for civil infractions and overweight vehicles are also featured in the new bill.

Registration would be required for all for-hire trucking companies and all Michigan-based fleets.

Workers, lawmakers blast wage

By BARBARA ALBERT
ANP Staff Writer

Restaurant owners and state Sen. William Faust (D-Westland) are confused by legislation cutting the minimum wage for Michigan waiters and waitresses.

The minimum wage for waiters and waitresses in the state is currently $2.51 per hour. The federal minimum wage for all workers is $3.35 per hour.

Restaurant owners in the state are permitted to pay the lower minimum wage because it is assumed that tips make up at least 25 percent of the employee's wages.

The new legislation introduced in both the state House and Senate would allow restaurateurs to estimate the earnings from tips at 40 percent instead of 25 percent.

Senate Bill 659 would cut minimum wage for waiters and waitresses to $2.01 per hour.

"This is an appalling signal to send to low-income people. Taking more money away from them," Faust said.

The measure was taken in an effort to create more jobs by making it appealing to employ more people, according to bill sponsors.

Jim Gray, manager of Dennys, Westland, said the idea was preposterous.

"The tips are different, depending what shift you work on. So it's not fair to estimate tips so high," Gray said.

Gray also said that in a customer-oriented business, managers should be more concerned with the personality and efficiency of the waiters and waitresses.

Gray said such a measure might make a difference in the fast food industry, but the change will not affect them.

Faust has criticized the measure as being anti-worker and inhumane.

Sponsors of the bill suggest that 60,000 new jobs would be created if the bill passed.

The legislation is currently being studied in committee.

Wetlands committee appointed

Nineteen area residents were appointed Tuesday to a Wetlands Task Force by Wayne County Executive Edward McNamara.

McNamara said he appointed the committee because he recognized the importance of Wayne County wetlands.

The task force will survey and inventory local wetlands and rank them in order of ecological importance.

Appointed to the committee are: Chairman Don Juchartz, of Belleville; John Stock, of Westland, deputy director of the Wayne County Health Department; Frank Papke, of Livonia, Wayne County planning commission members; Tom Anderson, of Southgate, National Resources commission members; R. Lynn Hamilton, supervisor of Van Buren Township; William Lontz, deputy director, manufacturing development group, Michigan Department of Commerce; William O'Neil, Wayne County Commissioner; Jud Alford, of Grosse Ile, owner of landscape supply company; Nancy White, of Plymouth, president of the League of Women Voters.

Readers pick the Oscars

"And, the winner is..."

On April 11, the names of Oscar winners will be announced in a televised Hollywood extravaganza.

Film fans are invited to submit their selection for the best picture and best actor, actress, supporting actor, supporting actress and song. Our staff will match the readers selections with the names of the winners in the six categories and award a prize to the winner. In the event that more than one individual submits the six correct names, the entry with the earliest postmark will be chosen as the recipient of the prize.

Nominations for best picture of 1987 include: Broadcast News, Fatal Attraction, Hope and Glory, The Last Emperor and Moonstruck.

The Oscar for best actor will be awarded to one of the following performers:

- Michael Douglas in Wall Street;
- Robin Williams in Good Morning, Vietnam;
- Jack Nicholson in Ironweed;
- Marcello Mastroianni in Dark Eyes; and
- William Hurt in Broadcast News.

Vying for the best actress award are: Cher in Moonstruck, Glenn Close in Fatal Attraction, Holly Hunter in Broadcast News, Sally Kirkland in Anna, and Meryl Streep in Ironweed.

Best supporting actor nominees are Albert Brooks, Sean Connery, Morgan Freeman, Vincent Gardenia and Denzel Washington, and best supporting actress nominees are Norma Aleandro, Anne Archer, Olympia Dukakis, Anne Ramsey and Ann Southern.

Best original song nominees include: Cry Freedom from the movie of the same title; The Time of My Life from Dirty Dancing; Nothing's Going to Stop Us Now from Mannequin; Shakedown, from Beverly Hills Cop II and Storybook Love, from The Princess Bride.

The names selected for the six "best" categories should be sent to Movie Contest, Associated Newspapers, P.O. Box 578, Wayne, Mich. 48184, or brought to either the Wayne or Belleville office. The name, address and phone number of the person submitting the entry also should be included.

Layman leaders

Members 'commissioned' to help others

Members of the First United Methodist Church, Wayne, are being converted. Into lay person ministers, that is.

About 15 members at the church have participated in the Stephen Ministry program since it began in September, according to Jackie Lewis, project director. Members undergo a 50-hour training program during a three-month time period to learn the skills necessary to teach, visit shut-ins and provide counseling to members in need of spiritual and human support, Lewis said.

The program participants were recently officially "commissioned" into the ministry, and 13 of the 15 members have been paired - on a one-on-one basis - with a fellow member in need.

The commissioning service is to publicly announce that fact that these people have completed the training and are now going out into the ministry." - Jack Lewis Project Director

"The commissioning service is to publicly announce the fact that these people have completed the training and are now going out into the ministry," Lewis said. "The program has been going along real well. We had 15 in our first class. Thirteen have someone to work with."

Although the Stephen Ministers are training to help others, they are not professional counselors or psychologists, Lewis stressed. If those in need of counseling need professional help, they are referred to Lewis - who has undergone a more extensive training session in Berkley, Calif. It is her job to find professional care for them, she said.

A national program in the Methodist Church, the Stephen Ministry is named after St. Stephen, the first deacon in the early church. The next training session at First United Methodist Church, located at 3 Town Square, west of Wayne Road, Wayne, begins in April.

Women recognized as business ownership changes

By BETH SUNDRLA
ANP Staff Writer

Setting your own hours, being your own boss and making all of the decisions are no longer restricted to men.

Many Michigan women are starting their own businesses and making the firms successful.

Michigan ranks first in the nation in assistance to women business owners, according to a U.S. Department of Commerce study.

Nationally, three out of every five new business start-ups are woman-owned. In Michigan, four out of every five new businesses are started by women.

Michigan ranks in the top five states for number of women-owned businesses (156,000). In 1970, women owned only 4.5 percent of Michigan businesses, in 1980, 28 percent. In 1985, it was 36 percent.

Projections indicate that women will own 50 percent of all Michigan businesses by the year 2000, according to the U.S. Department of Commerce figures.

Locally, many new and established businesses are owned by women.

Susan Zuckerman, co-owner of Leo's Jewelry and Gifts, Wayne, said even though her family has owned the business for 40 years, she still must put in 10 times more effort to make it a success.

Managing the business is completely different than it was when she worked as a sales clerk in the store a few years ago, Zuckerman said. She is a partner with her uncle and father. However, the two men have retired, and she now runs the business on her own.

"It takes all of your time, but it is very rewarding," she said.

"You have such a sense of accomplishment," she said.

But the work can be very demanding — especially for women who have a husband and children at home.

"Running a business is what I've always wanted to do since I was little. But it's still a man's world, so be prepared for that," Zuckerman said.

Zuckerman offered advice for those who want to start a business.

"Just because you've started a business, don't expect respect. It has taken me three or four years to get my point across."

Zuckerman said a business woman must be professional and never let her guard down.

Many organizations for women in business have developed as a result of the increasing number of women on the job. Some in the Wayne County area include the Women's Information Network, the Michigan Women Business Owners Conference, the Michigan Women's Commission and the Business and Professional Women's Association.

The fifth annual Michigan Women Business Owners Conference will be staged at

Small business conference to target needs of owners

By BETH SUNDRLA
ANP Staff Writer

Small businessmen from across the state hope to get the attention of state officials on issues important to entrepreneurs.

The Governor's Conference on Small Business is scheduled for Feb. 25 and 26 in Lansing. About 200 delegates will represent the six regions of the state at the conference.

David J. Willett, publisher of Associated Newspapers Inc., Wayne and president of the Small Business Association of Michigan, plans to attend the conference.

"It is sponsored by the governor to focus on issues we think will make a difference in the future not only of small business but in the health and wealth of the state of Michigan," Willett said.

"Small business is the engine that drives the economy," he said. "Small business is where the future is."

The conference is designed to identify the needs and concerns of small business and set the agenda for the future, according to a statement from Gov. Blanchard's office.

About 97 percent of all companies in Michigan employ less than 50 people, according to figures released by the governor's office.

More than 110,000 new businesses have been incorporated, and 535,000 net new jobs have been added to the Michigan business economy during the past five years, officials from Blanchard's office reported.

Willett said a large percentage of small businesses fail in the first five years. The conference participants hope to come up with an agenda that will help Michigan become perceived as a place that's healthy for business, Willett explained.

Some of the issues to be discussed will be unemployment insurance, workers' compensation, product liability and creating and retaining rural jobs.

The conference will also look at alternatives to health insurance mandates and ways to reduce welfare dependency.

Women

Hyatt Regency Hotel in Flint March 4 and 5.

The conference, which will feature 35 workshops at different levels of business expertise, is open to all women owning a majority interest in a Michigan business, as well as those considering opening a business in the state.

Pat Sabourin, owner of the Country Mouse, Wayne, admits that owning a business can mean long hours.

"I think it's more overwhelming than I thought it would be," she said.

Sabourin has been in business since June 1985, along with her partner Dorothy Siano, who runs Country Miniatures, Farmington.

"The amount of paperwork to run a business is tremendous," she said.

For someone wanting to start a business, Sabourin recommends a complete understanding of accounting and the business office.

"You've also got to love the thing that you're doing because the time factor is so demanding," she said.

"You definitely have to have the cooperation of the whole family. My husband does 90 percent of the cooking," she said.

Sandy Carpenter, owner of Slimmer Trimmer You, Belleville, said a potential business owner should make sure the business is something she enjoys.

"There are some long hours, but it is rewarding," she said.

Sheila Caincross, owner of Sheila's Dog Grooming, Wayne, said she makes her own hours in order to spend more time with her family.

IT'S GOTTA BE A DODGE Cooper Budweiser

Casino gambling is poor use of Detroit

Detroit officials are foolishly gambling with the future of all of southeastern Michigan when they talk about converting Belle Isle or another part of the city into a haven for roulette tables and cards games.

The plan to turn Detroit into a replica of Las Vegas or Atlantic City is the "easy way out" in terms of securing economic development and is a sure way to stunt the economic boom residents in the communities surrounding Detroit - including western Wayne County - have worked so long and so hard to secure.

Sure, the plans of thousands of new jobs to the city of Detroit sound impressive. Promoters of the casino gambling plan have reported that the conversion of Belle Isle into an aviary and habitat for gamblers would spur construction of 12 to 15 hotels alone. They also claim that the idea would bring thousands of out-of-town travelers to the city and surrounding area and provide a much needed economic boost to a sagging Detroit business economy.

Thanks, but no thanks. We would like to attract people and business to the area our own way and have been doing so successfully for many years.

Detroit city officials need to take a closer look at the far-reaching ramifications the casino gambling plan would have on the city and surrounding area. Not only would it destroy the tranquility and grace of the historic Belle Isle park, but it also would clearly escalate the crime rate in the city, prompt a need for more public safety officials and correctional facilities and change the direction of the "Renaissance" era Detroit officials have been so proudly touting.

Detroit officials would be wise, we believe, to add several suburban representatives to Coleman Young's casino gambling study commission. The suburban Detroit representatives need to reflect the concerns of all people in southeastern Michigan and the multiple worries about the gambling plan.

Recent published studies have shown that 62 percent of all people in the area oppose casino gambling - 75 percent when only residents living outside of Detroit are considered. That number is high enough, we believe, to send the message to Detroit lawmakers that their plan deserves input from the people in this area and, ultimately, a vote of the people to determine the fate of the idea.

Economic development doesn't have to mean casino gambling. To prove that statement, we point to a $1 billion investment in the city of Romulus recently announced, a $340 million auto stamping plant in the city of Wayne and scores of smaller-scale industrial and commercial developments in each of the communities we serve. Sure, lawmakers in western Wayne County could have easily turned to casino gambling as a source for the economic boomlet we now enjoy. But these lawmakers were wise enough to understand the many negative ramifications of such a plan and were also wise enough to develop alternative development strategies that are today viewed as blessings to the communities.

We urge Detroit officials, local lawmakers and state legislators to vehemently oppose the Detroit casino gambling plan. Ultimately, the plan would need approval from state lawmakers. It is, then, at the state level that the entire idea can be thwarted by state lawmakers voicing their opposition and refusal to support the plan.

Detroit officials are gambling with the future of the people residing within and far outside of their city limits when they talk of casino gambling. And southeastern Michigan - including western Wayne County - is far too valuable an area to be wasted.

State action needed

Once again, the fate of a major development in western Wayne County is in the hands of a state agency. And, as in the past, state officials are dragging their feet.

A commitment from the Michigan Department of Transportation to build an interchange off of I-94 at Vining Road, Romulus, is needed before a Florida developer will consent to building his $1 billion Metro/World Center in the city. Obviously, the development is of huge importance to the city - namely in the form of the 40,000 new jobs it will create, new $500 million tax base to the city and international notoriety of the local land.

MDOT officials have said a decision on whether or not they will construct the interchange will be made in about two months.

We urge our local lawmakers, Gov. Blanchard and local lobbyists to apply pressure on MDOT officials to speed up the decision-making process. We believe the decision to provide improvements to the area has already been made by the developer. Now it is the state's turn to react.

DETROIT CASINO GAMBLING - EATING UP THE PROFITS

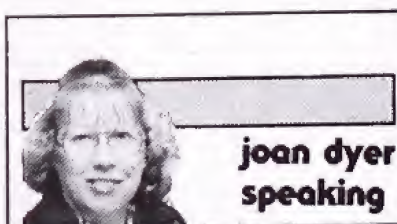

'Solid waste' more important than trash

"Most people think solid waste disposal means carrying the trash bags out to the street once a week," was a comment made at a recent meeting of the Conference of Western Wayne.

It's a statement that could be credited to Canton Township Supervisor James Poole, since he probably has said the same thing in one way or another for the past several years. As chairman of the CWW task force on solid waste disposal, Poole has had the unglamorous task of trying to make people aware of the impending crisis in waste disposal.

As the hours and days tick away, the crisis still looms over the horizon, the problems still exist and the only agreement that the public seems to have reached is that no one wants an incinerator or landfill "in my backyard."

When I hear the problem of waste disposal debated, I recall a visit I made to Aunt

joan dyer speaking

Dora's farm when I was a teenager. The farm was so far in the boondocks that the family claimed that it had "to pipe the sunshine in."

The house was spick and span - a charming, old-fashioned home with starched curtains, lace doilies and little scatter rugs and runners to protect the polished hardwood floors. Inside, you could literally "eat off the floor." Outside, it was a working farm with livestock, acres of tobacco and an ample garden near the back of the house.

After dinner, most of the food scraps were "recycled" to the chickens and pigs. But, I wondered, what happens to the boxes, bottles and tin cans that were used in the preparation of the meal?

I found the answer later in the week when I strolled around the property and spotted a deep ravine. From a distance it was a pretty sight with wild flower growing around the rim and trees spaced along the edge. On closer observation, I found the secret of Aunt Dora's solid waste disposal site - bags of trash and garbage had been tossed into the ravine. No one could see it from the windows of the house or the porch, and, therefore, it didn't spoil the image of cleanliness and neatness that Aunt Dora projected.

It was difficult for me to comprehend the dichotomy - on one hand the spotlessly clean house and on the other the garbage-littered ravine. Staying within the bounds of politeness and respect for my elders, I asked

Aunt Dora about the garbage dump and inquired as to what would happen when it filled up.

She acknowledged that the family disposed of its garbage in the nearby ravine. And, as for it filling up - that would never happen, she said. When the spring rains come, the ravine fills up with runoff water from the hills and the garbage is all washed away....

For years we have disposed of our wastes with as little regard for what happens "downstream" as Aunt Dora had. Now, it is coming back to haunt us. We can no longer bring our trash bags out to the curb and forget about them. We are going to have to do some long-range planning and be willing to pay the cost to effectively solve our solid waste disposal problems. They will not all wash away with the spring rains.

Poppyseeds are like paradise

sue willert speaking

The first time anyone ever suggested that poppy seed cake would make the taste buds sit up and beg for more, the idea was met with hoots of derision from yours truly and a steadfast refusal to even taste such a ridiculous concoction. Boy, how times have changed.

Poppy seed cake is now one of my favorite dessert items, but I admit, in pursuing the ultimate in cake recipes, I have one for this treat that puts everything else just this side of cardboard. This is truly a wonderful cake. It is complicated and somewhat troublesome, but the results are more than worth the effort.

This cake is made solely with egg whites, so the starkness of the cake creates a striking contrast to the blue-black poppy seeds. The cake should be well wrapped when refrigerated to retain moisture.

POPPY SEED TANTE CAKE

- 1 vanilla bean
- 2/3 cup milk
- 2/3 cup poppy seeds
- 1 2/3 cup cake flour (not all-purpose flour)
- 2 teaspoons baking powder
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1 1/2 sticks (6 ounces) unsalted butter, softened
- 1 1/4 superfine sugar
- 4 egg whites (at room temperature)

Slit the vanilla bean lengthwise and cut off the tips. In a small saucepan, scald the milk with the vanilla bean. In a small bowl, combine the scalded milk, vanilla bean and poppy seeds. Let cool to room temperature and scrape the inside of the vanilla bean into the milk mixture and discard the pod. Preheat oven to 325 degrees. Butter a 9-inch round cake pan. Sift together the flour, baking powder and salt into a medium-sized bowl. In a large mixing bowl, beat the butter on high speed until light and fluffy. Gradually add 1 cup of the sugar and continue to beat until very light and creamy, about 5 minutes. Sift in one-third of the flour mixture. Stir to combine. Beat in half of the milk-poppy seed mixture. Repeat two more times with the remaining dry ingredients and milk. In a medium bowl, beat the egg whites on medium speed until frothy. Add a pinch of salt and continue beating until soft peaks form, about 2 minutes. Beat in the remaining 1/4 cup sugar, one teaspoon at a time, increasing the speed to high, before adding the last two teaspoons. Beat until the meringue is stiff and shiny, about 1 minute. Fold 1/4 of the meringue into the cake batter. Fold in the remaining meringue.

Scrape the batter into the prepared pan and bake for 50 to 55 minutes, or until a tester inserted into the center comes out clean. Let cool in the pan on a rack for 10 minutes. Remove the cake from the pan and let cool, right side up, on the rack.

Using a serrated knife, trim off the crusty top of the cake. Slice the cake horizontally into three even layers. Set aside the middle layer to use as the top. Place the bottom layer on the inverted cake pan. Spread 3/4 cup of cream cheese icing (recipe follows) over the bottom cake layer. Repeat with the second layer. Top the cake with the middle layer. Frost the sides of the cake with a thin layer of icing. Refrigerate for 10 minutes, then refrost the sides with enough icing to cover completely.

Murphy, chef at Cafe Bon Homme, a French restaurant, in Plymouth, teaches culinary arts on Mondays and Wednesdays at the Romulus Senior High School.

Some of the tips he gives his students include always using the freshest foods and how to add color to a meal.

Murphy, who studied at Schoolcraft College, has also worked at the Golden Mushroom, Southfield, and MacKinnon's restaurant, Northville. He has been at Cafe Bon Homme since February 1986.

"I try not to use anything frozen," Murphy said, recommending only fresh meats and vegetables.

He gives his students lessons in all types of cooking, ranging from seafood and shellfish to baking cakes.

Born in Wayne, Murphy, 26, grew up in Northville. He said he wanted to be a chef since he was in eighth grade.

"I took a home economics class in junior high, and I've been interested in it ever since then," he said.

Murphy specializes in wedding cakes and makes them in addition to working at Cafe Bon Homme.

"I get a lot of comments from people telling me my cakes are good," he said. He also enjoys cooking game. His favorites include venison, elk and pheasant.

"I like the flavor because it's different," he explained.

A few of his favorite recipes have been provided below.

ANNA POTATOES

- 3 pounds baking potatoes
- 1 pound butter

Peel potatoes and carve into cylinder shapes. Slice the potatoes very thin. Use a slicer if possible.

Butter bottom of a pan and lay potatoes thinly in a 12-by-9-inch pan. Brush with butter and add another layer of potatoes. Repeat process until all potatoes are used. Bake at 350 degrees for 30 minutes.

VANILLA CHIFFON CAKE

- 18 ounces cake flour
- 22 ounces granulated sugar
- 1 1/4 ounces baking powder
- 1/2 ounce salt
- 1 cup egg yolks
- 1 5/8 cups water
- 1 1/8 cups salad oil
- 1 tablespoon vanilla
- 1 1/2 teaspoon almond extract
- 2 1/4 cups egg whites
- 2 teaspoons cream of tartar

Weigh the cake flour, sugar, baking powder and salt to ensure accuracy.

Place liquid ingredients in a large bowl and mix well with a wire whip. Add dry ingredients to this mixture and quickly mix together until very smooth.

Whip egg whites and cream of tartar until they are stiff but not dry.

Fold in egg white mixture to the rest of recipe - but do not whip or fold too long.

Place in baking pans and bake at 350 degrees for 25 minutes.

Note: For chocolate chiffon cake, add 1/2 cup cocoa to dry ingredients and 3 ounces of water.

PASTRY CREAM

Serve with chiffon cake.

- 3 1/2 quarts milk
- 1 1/2 pounds granulated sugar
- 1 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1 ounce gelatin
- 4 ounces margarine
- 2 cups milk
- 6 ounces cornstarch
- 1 cup egg yolks
- 1 tablespoon vanilla

Bring milk, sugar, salt, gelatin and margarine to a boil, stirring at all times. Dissolve 2 cups milk and cornstarch in a round, stainless steel bowl.

Add egg yolks and vanilla to the cornstarch mixture. Then add this mixture to the boiling mixture and bring to boil again. Simmer 2 minutes.

BAVARIAN CREAM

A variation of the pastry cream.

- 3 quarts pastry cream (above)
- 1 1/2 ounces of gelatin

- 1 1/4 cups of water
- 1 1/2 quarts whipped cream

Blend gelatin and water together and dissolve on stove. Add to 3 quarts of pastry cream.

Fold whipped cream into pastry cream.

CHICKEN LYONNAISE

This can be used in preparing game.

- 2 ounces oil
- 8 chicken breasts
- Salt
- White pepper
- 1 teaspoon garlic
- 3 ounces cream sherry
- 8 ounces beef consomme
- 8 ounces chicken broth
- 1 1/2 cups onions
- 4 ounces flour
- 2 ounces water
- 1 ounces cornstarch
- fresh parsley

Mix water and cornstarch together until smooth.

For sauce, slice onions into 2-inch-long, thinly sliced pieces. Place in a sauce pan with oil.

Heat over medium high heat, stirring occasionally. Add garlic, sherry, beef consomme and chicken broth. Reduce until liquid evaporates by half. Add cornstarch and water mixture.

For chicken, season with salt and white pepper. Flour chicken breasts. Heat saute pan or skillet and add oil. Add chicken to pan, cook until brown, flip over and finish cooking.

Place chicken on plate, glaze with sauce, garnish with fresh pastry.

BANANA SAUCE

- 1 pound brown sugar
- 3 cups whole cream
- 2 ounces dark rum
- 1 ounce cornstarch
- 2 pounds bananas, thinly sliced

Place brown sugar and cream in a heavy sauce pan. Mix rum and cornstarch until mixture is smooth with no lumps.

Place sugar and cream mixture on stove and bring to a boil. Add cornstarch mixture and return to boil. Simmer 2 minutes.

Add bananas, serve over crepe, cream puff or ice cream.

ITALIAN MEATBALLS

- 5 slices bread
- 1/3 cup beef stock
- 3 pounds meat (any combination of beef, veal, pork and lamb)
- 4 eggs
- 2 tablespoons butter
- 1/2 cup minced onions
- 1/2 cup chopped parsley
- 2 teaspoons of salt
- 2 teaspoons of lemon juice
- 1 tablespoon of garlic
- 1/3 cup parmesan cheese
- 1/2 teaspoon oregano

Cut bread into cubes and process into crumbs using food processor.

Combine meat, beef stock, bread crumbs, and eggs. Add remaining ingredients and mix thoroughly. Shape into 2-inch balls.

These meatballs can either be baked or poached. Poaching will keep the meatballs uniformly round, while baking is quicker.

JUST MARRIED

Slack - Underwood

Kelly Kaye Slack and Scott Thomas Underwood exchanged wedding vows Nov. 6 in the First Missionary Church, 35248 Palmer Road, Westland. The Rev. Vern Granger officiated during the double-ring ceremony.

The couples' rings - diamond and both bands - had been worn by the bride's mother and father.

Kathy Howerton sang "The Wedding Song" and was accompanied by Kenneth Puterbaugh on the guitar. Carol Brenner was the organist.

The bride is the daughter of Harold Slack, of Westland, and Shirley Cochensparger, of Bronson.

The groom is the son of Shirley Underwood, of Northville, and the late William (Pete) Underwood.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length, white crepe, backed, satin-styled gown with an overlay of iridescent lace. She wore a white, satin headpiece, accented with opalescent flowers, violet purple roses, white roses and pearlescent drops that caught her floor-length veil of illusion.

She carried a cascade bouquet of white, satin carnations and roses, lavender flowers, green silk leaves and purple and white ribbon streamers. For something old, she carried a hankie belonging to the groom's grandmother, Lorene Trafelet, of Hammonds Bay, on Lake Huron.

Tina Hayton, of Westland, a friend of the bride since childhood, was the matron of honor. Willer Eller, of Westland, a close friend of the groom, was best man.

Ushers included the groom's brother, William, and Joel Underwood, of Northville.

Following the ceremony, a dinner reception was staged in the church fellowship hall. The bride designed her wedding cake, which was a large sheet cake with two entwined hearts across the lower right and "Scott - Kelly" inside the hearts.

Sharon Lipke, of Westland, sister of the bride, served as the reception hostess.

The bride is a graduate of Wayne Memorial High School. The groom is a graduate of Northville High School and

Mr. and Mrs. Scott Underwood

Chrysler Tech. He is employed by JEDTCO, of Westland.

Following a Michigan wedding trip, the couple made their new home on Venoy Road, Westland.

Rogers - Tyer

Janet Marie Rogers and Jeffrey John Tyer were united in marriage Jan. 23 at St. Paul's Methodist Church, Cheboygan. The Rev. Clare Tosch officiated during the double-ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Rogers, of Cheboygan. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Tyer, of Romulus.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a princess-style dress with a train. She carried a bouquet of cascading rubrum lilies, white freesia and white roses.

Diane Bingham, of Lake Linden, a friend of the bride, served as maid of honor. Sarah Rogers, of Cheboygan, was a bridesmaid.

Doug Schoen, of Warren, was best man for the occasion. John Stachlewicz, of Detroit, and Mike and Pat Rogers, of Cheboygan, were ushers.

Following the ceremony, a reception was staged at the Knights of Columbus Hall, in Cheboygan.

The two traveled to Jamaica for a week-long honeymoon, before making their new home in Melvindale.

The bride is a 1986 graduate of Lake Superior State Col-

Enjoying Good Health

Dr. Bielawski is a member of the Oakwood Hospital Medical Staff and maintains a private practice in Internal Medicine and Cardiology in Dearborn. He is a clinical associate professor at Wayne State University's School of Medicine, Department of Medicine.

BE SMART! EXERCISE YOUR WAY TO A HEALTHIER HEART

By John G. Bielawski, M.D.

Medical research shows that people who don't exercise are at an increased risk for heart attack.

Cigarette smoking, high blood pressure, high cholesterol, marked overweight, and a family history of heart attacks at young ages tremendously compound the risk of having a heart attack or of sudden death.

Although we can't change our heredity, we can stop smoking, treat high blood pressure, lose weight, lower cholesterol, and get off our seats and exercise.

By exercising, we not only reduce our risk of heart attacks, but we can favorably influence cholesterol levels and blood pressure without the use of pills.

ARE YOU READY TO EXERCISE?

If you're over 35 years old, a medical examination by your doctor, which may include a stress test, should be the first step. Even persons with heart disease can and should exercise. However, it's recommended that they proceed with greater caution and closer monitoring by their doctor.

Begin with a warm-up phase including stretching and bending. Then, to improve your physical fitness and heart functioning, a minimum of continuous activity for 20 minutes at least three times a week is needed.

MAKE IT FUN

Choose an activity that's enjoyable. It doesn't have to be a marathon. In fact, just vigorous walking has been found to lower the number of heart attacks. "Mall walking" in large, enclosed shopping centers is very popular, especially among older adults.

Jogging, running, bicycling, rowing, cross-country skiing, and swimming are other excellent forms of heart smart exercises.

For those who need more competition to maintain interest, racquetball, tennis, and squash (singles only) are good choices.

COOL DOWN SLOWLY

After the vigorous workout, a cool-down period of at least five minutes is vital. It will keep your heart from overracing, which can be dangerous.

A workout should not be performed sooner than one hour after a meal, and it is wise to avoid exercising in extreme temperatures, either hot or cold.

Belleville's Maurice Brantley (32) takes this easy jumper as Wayne's Kevin Hankerson was too late for the block. Wayne also didn't show much as the Tigers routed the defending champs.

The outstretched arm of Robichaud's Eric Thomas can't stop Inkster's Jim Poole (20) from going to the hoop. But the Bulldogs stopped Inkster in their rematch.

Robichaud needs help from arch cage rival Inkster

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Robichaud will need some help if the Bulldogs are to move up a notch to first place in the Suburban Athletic Conference basketball standings.

And that help must come from none other than natural rival, Inkster.

If Inkster can defeat Highland Park on Friday and Robichaud turns back Oak Park, the Bulldogs will have a share of the lead. Without the Vikings' help, Robichaud would have to beat Highland Park on the Parkers' court (March 2) to salvage a share of the title. And that may be a mission impossible.

Robichaud managed to keep its title hopes alive with a come-from-behind 90-82 victory last Wednesday over Inkster. The Bulldogs buried River Rouge 105-59 Friday night to keep one-game back of the Parkers. Senior guard John Marshall collected 21 points and accounted for 15 assists while Joe Brintley chipped in 20 for the Bulldogs who are now 8-2 in the SAC and 13-3 over all on the season.

Robichaud outscored Inkster 35-20 in the final period to overcome deficits of 17-12 and 37-33 for the first two quarters. In that final period, Andre Barnett, a 6-3 Robichaud forward connected for 13 of his game high 28 points.

Inkster ran out of manpower as personal fouls took its toll, according to Coach George Thompson.

"We didn't get the necessary help from the bench," Thompson said. "We had key players in foul trouble and we lost them to personals during the last four minutes."

Marshall and Michael Aaron also were in double figures for the Bulldogs with 25 and 11 points. Inkster received 26 points from Andre Hardy and 21 from Jim Poole.

The Vikings rebounded from the lost to edge Willow Run 63-60 Friday night. Again the Vikings had to play over excessive fouls. Hardy sank eight of his 16 in the first period and Abney accounted for six of his 12 to stake the Vikings to a 24-17 lead that they never relinquished.

Willow Run's Flyers, however, made a run at the Vikings with a 20-12 advantage in the second period but they never managed to overcome their deficit. They tied the game late in the game but a pair of free throws from Abney and a jumper from Gary Johnson pulled the Vikings away for good.

Gymnasts flunk their tests

Although Belleville High girls' gymnastics team posted its first regional qualifying scores last week, it's unlikely that Tiger Coach Judy Marr will have enough gymnasts to field a team in the coming weeks.

Belleville lost a 120.15 to 116.3 decision to Trenton last week but the Belleville total surpassed the regional qualifying score of 115. A team must post 115 points at least four times in a season to qualify for regional.

"However, about four of our key gymnasts have become academically ineligible," said Marr, "therefore, I don't think we will be able to qualify for the regional."

Belleville will travel to Clarencville on Saturday to compete in the league championships.

Against Trenton, Belleville's Wendy Traskos had an excellent day as she posted firsts in the balance beam (7.8) and floor exercises (8.4). She also led the Tigers on the uneven bars with a 7.75 performance.

Super spoilers Belleville buries defending champ

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

"Super spoilers". A name that Belleville High earned Friday night after Coach Michael Garland's Tigers knocked off defending Wolverine 'A' Conference basketball champs, Wayne Memorial, before the Tiger home crowd.

"This has to be my biggest victory of the year," said Garland after his club put the champs away 74-48. It was Belleville's sixth conference victory in 11 starts. It was also Wayne's second conference loss and the Zebras' ticket out of first place, vacated for Monroe.

"We usually play a darn good defense," Garland continued, "but against Wayne it was just superb."

Garland probably wouldn't get any argument about that from Wayne.

After building up a 17-8 first period lead, Belleville surprisingly didn't encounter any opposition from the visiting Wayne quintet who didn't look like a team that had amassed an impressive 9-2 conference and a 12-4 overall record.

Although Wayne still had a shot at their hosts after the two teams broke for intermission with the Tigers ahead 33-24, the champs came back and stood around while Belleville ripped off a 23-9 third period advantage to seal the victory and Wayne's doom.

Three Belleville players reached the double digit scoring column with Maurice Brantley leading the way. Brantley drilled in nine from the field and was a perfect two-for-two at the free throw line for a game high 20 points. Teammates Darrick Coleman and Al Tilman checked in with 18 each.

Garland hopes this was "the victory that will give us the lift we were looking for."

"I knew we could play defense and I felt that it was only a matter of time when we would come around offensively," he said. "We have gotten better, now if we can only continue to maintain that momentum."

School officials said that a brawl broke out during the game that involved a former Belleville student and "an outsider". The fans were removed from the school by auxiliary police. The fight didn't have anything to do with the players or the game, school officials reassured.

The Tigers will return to the hardwood Friday night to take on Wyandotte at Wyandotte. The Bears are sporting a 3-8 conference and a 9-8 overall record as the week commences.

Eagles split as they show off their cage defense

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

There is a sigh of relief in Coach Dan Henry's voice. He feels his Eagles are finally finding the range.

Despite a last second loss to a highly-touted Willow Run quintet, the Eagles are beginning to play defense.

"I felt we turned in our best defensive effort of the season against Willow Run," said Henry whose club also earned a 61-58 victory over nonconference rival Milan last week. "To hold an explosive team like Willow Run to 51 points tells me that the kids are working out there."

Willow Run grabbed a 18-10

first period lead and stayed ahead 31-21 at half time before the Eagles came back and held their rivals to nine points for the eight minutes in the third period. With the score at 40-31 heading into the last period, Romulus managed to tie the game at 1:26 when Willie Maull drilled in a jump shot.

But Cory Williams came back with a three-point play to give the Flyers the lead for good. Brent Bonam, who had all of his 10 points in the first half. Maull also finished with 10.

Romulus led all the way against Milan as the Eagles turned a 12-6 first period into a 24-15 half time advantage. Although Milan came back and outscored the Eagles 24-18 in the first period, the two settled for 19-points each for the final frame. Bonam left the game

Romulus' mission: Strike gold

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Romulus' mission at the Class A state championships this weekend will be to capture gold medals, according to Coach Wayne Schimming.

"Our goal this week is to come home from Battle Creek with some golds," Schimming vowed after his wrestlers finished with three silvers and a pair of bronzes at the Class A regional championships staged at Plymouth Salem.

"I hope that no one misunderstands or misconstrues what I have to say, but I was disappointed at our team's overall performances at the regional. I felt we should have had a couple of first places. But, again, I am proud at the way we wrestled. We were down but managed to come back."

Romulus' three regional runners up were: heavyweight Paul Nowicki, 98-pounder Tony Venturini, and 112-pounder Tim Kosikowski. The Eagles finished third with Bruce Boyd (119) and Dennis Corder (126).

All five Romulus wrestlers will advance to Battle Creek where the state finals will be conducted over the weekend.

Nowicki lost his gold to Redford Catholic Central's Toby Heaton, ranked the No. 1 heavyweight in the state this year. The Romulus grappler emerged on the short end of an 8-1 decision.

To get to the finals, Nowicki destroyed Frank Johnson of Farmington via a 29 seconds pin. He also pinned Bedford's Roman Rimmer in 35 seconds.

A junior, Nowicki will carry a 42-3 won-lost record to the finals.

Venturini, a state runner up a year ago, got into trouble in the finals when he lost a close 7-5 decision to Lincoln Park's Gary Francis whom he had defeated a week earlier. He piled up a 44-2 record after beating Brandon Mardrossian of Livonia Stevenson on a technical fall, 16-1; and Alan Barnhizer in a fall at 3:52.

Kosikowski, a sophomore, defeated Dave Mang of Salem, 6-2; Ron Nutt of Novi, 7-2, then lost an overtime decision to Catholic Central's Mike Gentile.

While Boyd carved out a 2-0 victory over Mark Joseph of Ann Arbor Pioneer, his teammate, Corder, got by Scott Brown of Novi by default in the consolation rounds.

Earlier in the week Romulus missed a golden opportunity to advance its team to the state championships when it lost a close one to Temperance Bedford at the Class A regional championships staged at Monroe. Bedford is the defending Class A state champ.

Romulus had defeated Monroe, while Bedford eliminated Woodhaven in the preliminary rounds.

A state runnerup last year, Romulus's Tony Venturini has Brandon Mardossian all tied up. But Mardossian manages to slip away and hand the Romulus grappler only his second defeat of the season. ANP photo by Ann Grimes/staff photographer

Huron revival
is shortlived

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

That long awaited New Boston Huron basketball revival earned some followers last week, but unfortunately it didn't last as long as Coach Larry Swick hoped it would.

Huron, mired near the cellar of the conference that bears its name, destroyed the South-eastern Michigan Conference's cage image with a stunning 79-72 victory over the conference leader, Pickney, last Tuesday. But, on Friday, when the Chiefs returned to their own conference they discovered their newly found strength was only ethereal. Carlson stopped

Belleville swims 2nd to Monroe at championships

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

A slow start at the Wolverine 'A' Conference swimming & diving championships cost Coach Bill Snider and the Belleville Tigers at least a share of the title.

Belleville finished second to undefeated Monroe in the final standings, despite the fact that the Tigers placed more of their swimmers on the all-conference team. Belleville came up 7.5 points shy of the Trojans who garnered 287 points as compared to the Tigers 280.5 points.

Trailing the two conference frontrunners in the final standings were: Wayne Memorial (193.0), Trenton (156.5), Ford-son (120), Lincoln Park (63), Wyandotte (47) and Southgate Anderson (44).

Snider said he was disappointed "only because if we had performed just a little bit better during the preliminary round we could have finished first."

"We didn't swim well the first day," Snider added. "We finished in a couple of events where I felt we could have done better. We were physically but not mentally there the first day."

Belleville received a stellar effort from its 200-yard medley relay team which captured the gold medal after posting its best time of the season.

Snider chose to go with freshman Trevor Yearly, seniors Mike Ackron and Martin Duda along with junior Eric Snider in this event and the foursome responded with a 1:44.04 to win the conference title and qualify for the state finals.

The Tigers came back to win the 100-yard freestyle event thanks to Snider who churned a 49.93 for his second gold of the evening.

Bryan Bogardus struck gold for the Tigers when he covered the 100-yard backstroke in the winning time of 59.08. Team-mates Yearly and Charlie Howard chipped in with a seventh and 11th place finish in the event.

Ackron culminated an outstanding conference career with his second gold, winning the 200-yard individual medley with a 2:03.41, then came back for his third gold with a 1:03.52 in the 100-yard breaststroke.

JOEL SMITH, of Romulus, won three wrestling matches for Eastern Michigan University Jan. 30, as EMU beat Grand Valley State College. Smith, a senior, currently has a 19-4 record in the win-loss column. His teammate, all-American wrestler from Belleville Jerry Umin, improved his record to 33-5, after he won three matches against Grand Valley State.

MICHIGAN STATE UNIVERSITY senior Marvin Parnell, of Inkster, finished fourth at the Central Collegiate track meet at Northern Iowa University when he completed a race in the 600-yard dash in 1:11.63. Parnell, whose strength has been in the 400-yard dash this year, was selected All-Big Ten in 1986 and 1987.

REGISTRATION FOR ALL baseball leagues will be each Saturday in March from 10 a.m. until 2 p.m. at the Bailey Recreation Center, located behind the Westland City Hall on Ford Road, and from 8 until 10 p.m. at the WYAA Compound, located at 6050 Farmington, Westland.

CANTON RESIDENT TAMI Brozek, a freshman on the Western Michigan University women's track team, was part of the 1,600-meter relay team which took third place at the Red Simmons Invitational, Ann Arbor, Feb. 13. The team time was 3:59.2.

ROMULUS LITTLE LEAGUE baseball registrations will be staged from noon until 3 p.m. Saturday at the Romulus Recreation Department. For more information, call 941-1173.

EASTERN MICHIGAN UNIVERSITY will offer a baseball clinic from 8 a.m. until 4 p.m. Sunday at Bowen Field House. The clinic will be presented by the coaches and players at EMU and Bryan Clutterbuck, pitcher of the Milwaukee Brewers and former EMU player. Coaches and managers will be charged $8, and students and dugout members will be charged $4. For more information, call 487-0315.

CANTON RESIDENT BILL Pye, freshman Northern Michigan University ice hockey goaltender, earned his first league win, stopping 29 shots and leading his team to a 5-4 victory against North Dakota. Pye has a 2-6 record this year in the win-loss column with a 4.49 goals-against average.

THE CANTON PARKS and Recreation Department is sponsoring a 10-week spring raquetball league that will begin Wednesday, March 2. Court times will be at 7:30 and 8 p.m. at the Rose Shores, of Canton. A fee of $64 will be charged. For further information, call 397-5110.

first in the 400-yard freestyle relay to overtake the Trojans of Monroe in the final standings, but Snider pointed out "that we just didn't have the people to do it." With Bogardus, Joe Bongiorno, Eric Lawson and Dan Fancher, the Tigers settled for a fourth place (3:32.48).

Belleville received some key points that lifted it to the runner-up berth thanks to Fancher, who was fourth in the 200-yard freestyle (1:54.86), Mike Bird and Duff, who were seventh and 12th, respectively, in that event.

Lawson finished third and Yearly eighth in the 200 individual medley while Scott Overholt provided the Tigers with a 11th in the event.

In the 50-yard freestyle, Snider picked up a third place medal (22.91) while Duda was sixth and Tim Murphy wound up in a two-way tie for eighth place.

Other Belleville point contributors included Duda, who was fourth in the 100-yard freestyle and Bongiorno, 10th in that event. Bogardus finished fifth in the 100-freestyle, while in the 500-yard freestyle Fancher was third (5:09.26); Lawson, sixth; Bird, seventh; and Duff, 12th.

And in the 100-yard breaststroke event, the Tigers received a sixth place from Overholt.

Belleville brought the curtains down on the 1987-88 regular season with 9-2 overall win-loss record and a 6-1 conference year. The Tigers placed Mike Ackron, Trevor Yearly, Snider, them 83-58, handing the Chiefs their 10th league setback in 12 starts.

"I felt we played our best game of the season against Pickney," said Swick who said that the outcome reflected the strength of the Huron League. "We sure didn't do anything to carry on that image in the two middle quarters against Carlson."

After leading Carlson 18-14 after the first eight minutes Friday night, for some inexplicable reason the Chiefs couldn't find the basket. They hit on only two of 19 attempts in the second and were even worst, if you can believe it, in the third when they sank only one of the 16 attempts and put a mere two points on the scoreboard during the entire period.

Consequently, Huron fell behind 34-27 after the first half and wasn't in the game after three periods when they trailed 55-29.

Andy Jackson, the team's scoring leader, collected seven of the team's 18 first period points, and settled for a game high 24. Teammate Michael Harrison had five of his seven points in the second period.

Swick couldn't explain the drought. He said he hoped "he never has to sit through another quarter like that."

a balanced scoring attack. He had 20, while Tom Niemi tossed in 14 and Don Cameron contributed 11 for the winners who made 13 of 18 from the free throw line. The Chiefs also fared well at the foul stripe where they made 17 of 20.

Huron's Johnny Spiecker turned in his best performance of the year as he scored a career-high 24 points, scoring eight of eight from the free throw line in the last period. He was 12 of 12 shooting free throw for the event. The 6-1 senior forward also nabbed 12 rebounds in leading the Chiefs past Pickney.

"He (Spiecker) deserves a lot of credit," Swick said. "It's the best I've seen him play."

Harrison pumped in 20 points against the conference leaders.

The Chiefs have a busy schedule this week as they traveled to Lincoln Park last night for a nonconference game, return home on Friday to host Airport and will meet Monroe Jefferson on March 2 at home in a makeup game.

"We got to get some consistency into our game to get ready for the districts," Swick noted. "This team can play as evidenced by the way they handled Pickney."

Belleville's Braswell qualifies for state

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Mike Braswell, Belleville High's lone representative to the Class A regional championships staged Saturday at Plymouth Salem, passed the test and qualified for this week's state finals.

Braswell, a sophomore, finished third at 138 after defeating Redford Union's Chris Woodbeck, 3-0, in the consolation round of the finals.

With that victory, his 34th, Braswell set a school sophomore win record. He broke Steve Cook's previous high of 32 victories set during the 1979 season.

To get to the regional consolation round, Braswell defeated South Lyon's Sam Bailo,

2-1, then dropped a close 2-1 decision to Redford Catholic Central's Brendon Rock.

The Belleville grappler was forced in a "do-or-die" situation in his next match and survived Ann Arbor Pioneer's Jason Palmisano, 6-0.

Braswell will travel to Battle Creek on Friday to compete for state honors, according to Belleville Coach Gerald Malacek. What are his chances to return with a medal? "It's difficult to say because the competition at this level is very tough," Malacek said. "But it should be interesting to see what he does."

In the meantime, the Tigers were ousted from the regional team championships by Adrian 35-23. Belleville destroyed arch-rival, Ypsilanti, 51-15, to reach the finals.

'Alone Together'

Helen Morgan (above, from left), of Livonia, Tobin Alan Hissong, of Canton Township, and Tony Mosti, also of Canton Township, are putting the finishing touches on their lines this week, in preparation for the opening of their performance of "Alone Together" Feb. 26 and 27 and March 4 and 5 in the John Glenn High School auditorium. Presented by the Westland-based Spotlights Players and directed by Jan Daniels, of Belleville, the comedy is about the plight of a middle-aged couple who "think" they are finally alone together after years of raising a family. Doors open at 7:30 p.m., and curtain time is 8. Tickets are $4.50 and $3.50 for students and senior citizens. ANP photo by Ann Grimes/staff photographer

CREAM CHEESE ICING

11 ounces cream cheese, at room temperature

2 sticks (8 ounces) unsalted butter, at room temperature
1 vanilla bean, split lengthwise
3/4 cup confectioners' sugar, sifted

In a medium mixing bowl, beat the cream cheese until light and fluffy. With the mixer on low speed, gradually beat in the butter until well blended, about 4 minutes. Scrape the seeds from the inside of the vanilla bean into the mixture. Discard the pod. Sift in the confectioners' sugar and continue to beat on low speed, scraping the bowl frequently, until well blended, about 2 minutes. Refrigerate until ready to use, but do not let harden.
